It Was a Good Year with More to Come

by Steve Cook, UGI Utilities, Inc.

To our BIA Members,

As we close out the year, I'd like to briefly share some highlights of the things that we've accomplished to best serve our BIA members.

We have updated and expanded our BIA Strategic Plan which will take us to 2025. In conjunction, we've updated our mission statement and fine-tuned our committee goals and responsibilities, positioning ourselves to serve our members in the most effective way. To this end, we've also launched our new website – www.lancasterbuilders.org.

We have expanded our Government Affairs influence at the local and state levels. Our GA Committee leadership continues to address the broad array of issues relevant to the association and its members. There are several bills in the PA legislature that will impact our industry moving forward; our advocacy efforts have made a difference!

We appreciate the Political Action Committee contributions that many of you have made to our BIA PAC.

We continue to respond to your call for skilled labor. We actively partner with local trade schools to connect you to their exceptional students through interviews and internship opportunities. We'll be representing our member companies at the February 9th Thaddeus Stevens Job Fair in an effort to facilitate those connections.

Our Foundation has awarded scholarships to students pursuing a career in the trades, as well as providing grant monies for community projects and we continue to partner with Hands-on House Children's Museum. We appreciate your contributions towards these efforts.

Internally the BIA has made changes to improve our financial standing, the full-time staff is now a team of 3, and we are looking to take on a smaller footprint in our rented office space.

Please join us at our Installation Banquet on January 13th (see page 14) and our Building Connections – a Speed-Networking Event on February 17th (page 16).

Lastly, I want to speak on behalf of both staff and leadership and sincerely thank those of you who give your time as volunteers, leaders, sponsors and partners.

Respectfully,
Steve Cook
2021 President, BIA Board of Directors.

HOW DATA ANALYTICS CAN HELP YOUR BUSINESS

The term data analytics can seem daunting to anyone who does not fancy themselves a lover of numbers. Plus, the suggestion that utilizing analytics is imperative to a thriving business is often displeasing to executives who have long enjoyed success without their use.

However, analytics can be valuable to every business and need not cause alarm at their mention. Generally, analytics is the process of using data to make conclusions, and the practice can answer four questions:

- What happened? (descriptive analytics)
- Why did it happen? (diagnostic analytics)
- What will happen? (predictive analytics)
- How can we make it happen? (prescriptive analytics)

Most companies want to know the answers to at least some of the above questions. The ability to determine these answers is limited only by the quality and amount of data. Although financial records compose the most common form of data, other information can also be considered data, such as email and phone communication, behavioral activity, and qualitative descriptions.

Once the data and the desired information has been identified, the actual use of analytics involves three main steps:

1. Data mining is the collection of the data and the verification of its accuracy.
2. Statistical analysis takes that data and creates insights and models and develops trends.
3. Lastly, presentation is the ability to share the results with those who will be executing the outcomes of the analysis.

Although some analytics projects may take some time to complete, they provide a sound basis for a decision, or at least provide additional background for making a decision. When businesspeople rely solely on their experience or their intuition to make a decision, they are lowering their chances of success by not incorporating data that may indicate of changes in underlying assumptions.

There are multiple examples of the way in which analytics can be beneficial to most businesses, including builders. For instance, with prices of inputs soaring, what is the optimal amount of inventory to be held on hand? How can margin and/or markup be modified to hedge against future cost increases? What is the impact of slow collection of receivables during a period of inflation? Is a discount that incentivizes quicker payment of receivables a worthwhile strategy? What has been the specific impact of sick time during the pandemic on productivity and completion time?

Many small businesses will want to know the answers to the above examples, but may not have the internal personnel to perform the analysis properly or promptly. Employing outside professionals can be a worthwhile investment, as the savings and peace of mind that come from the consultation are likely to far outweigh the cost of the outside analysts.

Homebuilders and Appraisers Should Talk

by Scott Reuter, Single-Family Chief Appraisal Officer, Freddie Mac

How Homebuilders and Appraisers Can Collaborate to Overcome Challenges

The appraisal of a new home is clearly an important event for a home builder as it plays such a vital role in the builder or homebuyer being able to acquire the necessary financing. For an appraiser handling the assignment, it's their job to measure market acceptance and develop support for the value of the property. As I discussed in a recent Housing Development podcast with the National Association of Home Builders, for a number of reasons, these assignments can present challenges for an appraiser.

Why Are New Construction Appraisals Challenging?

New home packages typically include pricing for additional features or amenities that may not have been widely seen in a particular market yet. This can lead to builders introducing new inventory at price points that make it difficult for an appraiser to find supporting closed transactions – and this has only been compounded by rising lumber and building materials costs seen recently in many markets nationwide. The refrain of the house didn't "appraise" is being heard more and more.

How Can Builders Help Address This?

To get in front of this, many builders are adopting best practices that promote open engagement and sharing of information with appraisers through "appraisal packets". As an appraiser, I think this approach should be applauded and encouraged. This information can be very helpful as an appraiser develops market support for actual costs. That said, with industry concerns around undue influence and pressure on appraisers, there can be a good deal of confusion around what information a builder is able to share.

To help overcome appraisal challenges, many builders are adopting best practices that promote open engagement and sharing of information with appraisers through "appraisal packets". As an appraiser, I think this approach should be applauded and encouraged.

Since the development of an appraisal is all about collecting and analyzing information, the good news is that short of outright pressure, the landscape is really wide open with respect to what and how much information is appropriate for a builder to share.

A quality, helpful builder appraisal packet can include the following:

- Information from any market study the builder has completed (or pre-appraisal).
- Copy of the sales contract or the custom home contract.
- Comprehensive list of the cost of the amenities and finishes for the home.
- Two or three local and recent comparable sales, if available.
- Breakout of the monetary difference of recent major material cost increases vs their typical cost.
- Copies of all prepaid change orders showing the amenities.
- Any additional added costs to the price of the home.

Additionally, many builders also share the actual cost breakdown for the home, including their margin. If this is the case, I can't stress enough how important it is that appraisers realize the sensitivity of this information and ensure it is treated with the utmost confidence.

What if the Appraisal Can't Justify the Price?

Even with all of this active engagement, there will be times where an appraiser cannot support a certain sales price (or construction costs). When this happens, a builder might request a face-to-face meeting with the appraiser to review and better understand the analysis. This doesn't need to be a contentious event. Indeed, a productive conversation can help both the builder and appraiser – and not just as it relates to that specific assignment. It can also go a long way in strengthening their interpersonal relationship.

The current environment of rising costs and limited inventory – during a global pandemic nonetheless – are creating market challenges across the board. It's my opinion that the best way to navigate the challenges presented by this environment is for builders and appraisers to continue to talk and collaborate – to better manage current assignments and lay the groundwork for positive relationships in the future.

Who's in the News: New Hires, Accomplishments & Honors

NEW HIRES

Barley Snyder continues to add to its group of attorneys, as the firm has hired three new associates. All three were brought into the firm as law clerks in September, then received notification in October they had passed the Pennsylvania Bar Exam.

The three new attorneys are:

Zachary D. Griffith: A Berks County native, Griffith is a magna cum laude graduate of Widener University Delaware Law School and a summa cum laude graduate of Albright College. He has worked as a legal intern at two technology companies while in law school.

Caleb P. Setlock: A member of the firm's Employment Practice Group, Setlock is a cum laude graduate of Duquesne University School of Law and Duquesne University. The Lancaster County native previously worked as an intern at the county's Public Defenders Office.

Gabriel T. Wertz: Wertz is a graduate of the Villanova University Charles Widger School of Law and DeSales University. He was a certified legal intern at Villanova Law School's Interdisciplinary Mental & Physical Health Law Clinic, successfully representing clients in appeals cases to increase or have reinstated paid personal assistance service hours that had been previously denied by their health insurers.

Both Setlock and Wertz spent three months in 2020 as summer associates with Barley Snyder.

"These gentlemen have already made an impact at the firm with their impressive work ethic and eagerness to learn," Barley Snyder managing partner Jeff Lobach said.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

ELA Group: The Chesapeake Bay Landscape Professional program, announces that Mingi Chou, EIT, CBLP, Project Engineer for ELA Group, Inc. located in Lititz, PA, has earned the Chesapeake Bay Landscape Professional (CBLP) designation.

Mingi Chou

The achievement of the CBLP Level 1 designation demonstrates an advanced level of professionalism and knowledge of sustainable landscaping practices for a healthier Chesapeake Bay. Certification is voluntary and candidates must pass a comprehensive exam that assesses an individual's command of sustainable practices in the design, installation, and maintenance of landscapes. Advanced, Level 2 credentials are also available for highly experienced design (CBLP-D) and installation (CBLP-I) professionals.

CBLP-certified professionals have in-depth knowledge of sustainable landscape best practices and a focus on maintenance of stormwater best management practices. Consumers are encouraged to ask for CBLP-certified individuals when selecting a landscaping company.

Barley Snyder: The West Chester Area Education Foundation has appointed Barley Snyder attorney Kevin C. Myhre to its board of directors.

The foundation is an independent, nonprofit organization that attracts private resources exclusively for the benefit of students in the West Chester Area School District, according to its website. Myhre is a graduate of the district.

Kevin C. Myhre

"I'm thrilled to be able to help the students of the West Chester Area School District," Myhre said. "I owe a great deal to the district, and with my children recently starting in the district, it makes it all the more important to me."

His term on the board is scheduled to end in 2024.

Myhre is a patent attorney in the firm's Intellectual Property Practice Group. He is a former member of the board of directors at the Chester County Council of Boy Scouts and is a 2018 graduate of Leadership Chester County.

HONORS

RKL LLP is pleased to announce that the Central Penn Business Journal has named firm Partner Johnathon W. Heller, CPA, to its 2021 class of "Forty Under 40" young leaders. These annual awards recognize Central PA's young business leaders for their professional accomplishments, community service and positive impact.

Johnathon W. Heller

"Whether he is advising a business owner, mentoring a colleague or serving on a community board, John Heller helps others recognize what is possible and helps them achieve it," said RKL CEO Ed Monborne. "The RKL team is proud to see John recognized for all that he's achieved so far and all of the potential on his horizon."

A Partner in RKL's Tax Services Group, Heller delivers a variety of tax, financial management and consulting services to help high net worth individuals and businesses, primarily in the health care, construction, professional services and real estate industries, plan for and achieve their goals. He identifies the most advantageous strategies for each phase of a client's unique journey and executes complex transactions like mergers and acquisitions.

Heller holds a B.A., Business Management from Gettysburg College, an MBA in Accounting and Finance from York College of Pennsylvania and an M.S., Accounting from the University of Phoenix. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants and American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Heller resides in York with his family.

Barley Snyder For a third time, the Pennsylvania Immigration Resource Council has awarded Barley Snyder partner David Freedman its prestigious Light of Liberty award.

The award is bestowed annually on the organization's top pro bono attorney. The Light of Liberty ceremony, which recognizes the volunteers and supporters who worked with York-based PIRC in the past year to provide services to vulnerable immigrants in Pennsylvania, was held on Sept. 22.

David Freedman

In 25 years of the PIRC, Freedman is the only person to be awarded the Light of Liberty designation more than once.

Freedman was honored this year for spearheading a statewide effort to push courts to adjudicate U visa cases that have been backlogged for years. The PIRC previously gave Freedman the award in 2015 and 2018.

"The work the PIRC does is essential to the future of fair and just immigration not just in Pennsylvania, but throughout the country," Freedman said. "It's a privilege and an honor to help the brave, immigrant victims of sexual violence who are PIRC's clients."

Freedman is a member of the Barley Snyder Employment Practice Group and the chair of the firm's Education Practice Group. He is also the president of the board of directors of the Lancaster Bar Association.

Barley Snyder Savoy Magazine has included Barley Snyder partner Jennifer Craighead Carey on its 2021 Most Influential Black Corporate Directors list.

Jennifer Craighead Carey

Craighead Carey was recognized for her work as a member of the board of directors at Lancaster-based Fulton Financial Corp., the parent company of Fulton Bank. The list of more than 700 African-American directors on corporate boards of directors across the country is compiled by the national publication Savoy Magazine, a leading African-American lifestyle magazine focusing on fashion, business, technology and style.

"Featuring this many African-American corporate board members highlights to the world where diversity is happening and why it's so important," Craighead Carey said. "A lot of companies talk about having diversity, but it's valuable to see the companies that back that up by having diversity on their boards. It's an honor to receive this prominent recognition."

A member and past chair of the Barley Snyder Employment Practice Group, Craighead Carey is also the chair of the firm's Crisis Management Service Team, the chair of the firm's Diversity & Inclusion Committee and a member of the Management Committee. In addition to her work with Fulton, she is also a member of the WellSpan Health Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Steering Committee and is the secretary of the board of directors at Lancaster City Alliance..

Barley Snyder. Two suburban Philadelphia-based publications recently named Barley Snyder partner Salvatore Anastasi as a top attorney in the region.

The Daily Local News named Anastasi to its "Best Lawyers 2021 Readers Choice Awards" of Chester County in July, and Main Line Today, based in Newtown Square, named him to its 2021 "Top Lawyers Around the Main Line and Western Suburbs."

Both recognitions for Anastasi were in the field of intellectual property. The Daily Local News recognition came through a reader vote, while the Main Line Today award came through a peer vote.

"I am very humbled that both the public and my peers felt compelled to include me in these recognitions," Anastasi, the chair of the Barley Snyder Intellectual Property Practice Group, said. "Satisfying a client's needs is what motivates me, so these recognitions by them and my peers is the kind of feedback that is exciting and truly gratifying."

Anastasi is the treasurer and a member of the board of directors of the American Intellectual Property Association (AIPLA). He also is an AIPLA Fellow and is a member of the organization's Patent Harmonization Task Force. The group strives to improve both procedural and substantive patent rules/laws around the world. Locally, Anastasi is a board member at the Brandywine Regional Airport.

Regional Firm Grows HR Consulting Practice Amid Unprecedented Workforce Conditions

RKL LLP has grown their HR Consulting Practice amid what some experts are calling the "Great Resignation." This recognized name in the professional services space is establishing itself as a leading provider of comprehensive workforce solutions. Focused on helping companies meet the challenges of today's business environment, RKL's Human Capital Management practice has attracted unprecedented interest from employers looking for a better way to attract, retain and engage their teams.

Established in 2018, RKL Human Capital Management experienced a surge in demand for its specialized HR expertise in 2020 as employers sought help navigating COVID-19 regulations, government relief provisions and related employer practices. In 2021, this trend continues as employers face a new set of challenges, such as a historically tight labor market, pandemic burnout and an increasingly remote work environment.

"There seems to be understanding among employers that 'business as usual' is no longer an option," says Bethany Novis, who oversees RKL's Consulting Services Group. "There's an appetite for trying new approaches like enhancing compensation structures, engaging teams differently and even automating and outsourcing some roles to sustain a company's talent needs."

Under the leadership of Stephane Smith, a human resources executive, RKL's Human Capital Management practice has significantly grown its services, team, client roster and revenue over the past two years. HR consulting services are projected to earn the firm $1.5 million in revenue in 2021, a three-fold increase from 2019.

As a result, RKL has grown its HR bench from three consultants in 2019 to a team of 11 in 2021. Today, the group offers a broad range of solutions including outsourced/ interim HR support, team engagement surveys, Human Resources Integrated System (HRIS) selection and implementation, Employee Retention Tax Credit (ERTC) eligibility, compliance support, policy and procedure design and more.

Demand for services that give employers a competitive edge in recruiting and retaining talent has heightened over the course of the last six months, according to Smith. Compensation analysis, an offering that taps into RKL's unique combination of workforce, financial and operational expertise, helps employers understand how their compensation packages stack up against their competitors. Employee engagement is also an area of increased focus as employers seek more proactive methods to stem turnover.

"Out of the pandemic, many companies learned that they were more resilient and adaptive than they may have thought. It's those companies that are coming to us now and saying 'we know we need to think differently' in order to retain the best talent while still driving profits and winning in the marketplace. And we're in a unique position to help them do that," says Smith.

Dynamic and fast-changing labor laws enacted at the local, state and national levels also have employers scrambling to stay compliant and on the right side of the law, according to Smith. From Equal Employment Opportunity surveys, wage and hour calculations, workplace health and safety regulations and more, the RKL team can work in an advisory capacity to help employers remain compliant and avoid potential costly fines.

Builder Spotlight: Craig Martin, Chief Operating Officer Cedar Knoll Builders

When was your company started?

Cedar Knoll was started in 1983.

What does your company do?

1. We serve our customers and clients.
2. We design and build new home communities.
3. We build Custom Homes for clients that have their own land and do not desire to build in a Community. This could be one of our plan designs or a totally new Custom Design that is prepared by meeting with Barb Berkowich, our Custom Home Sales Coordinator, and Amy Jacobsen, our in-house Senior Designer.
4. We build commercial projects.

Our projects include Office Space, Retail Space, Churches, Banks, Dental Offices, Medical Offices, a Veterinary Clinic, a Daycare Facility, Community Centers and a Winery.

What makes your company special?

Here at Cedar Knoll Builders our people make the difference. Cedar Knoll Builders is committed to the highest standards of ethics and building practices. Our LifeTime Home Philosophy is an extension of what we've learned at one time in our lives. "Do unto others as you would have done unto you." That is why we are committed to building our homes with the same care, commitment to quality, cost consciousness and pride that we build into our very own homes. We are here to create a great customer experience. It's the only way we know how to do business and the only way to sustain a reputation of great craftsmanship and customer satisfaction. We are honored to be a second generation builder dedicated to serving our local Chester and Lancaster County neighborhoods with outstanding quality homes in lasting communities for over thirty years.

Cedar Knoll Builders is a company based on Christian values. We strive to treat each customer with honesty and fairness as we build a house of integrity to fit our customers' lifestyle. We genuinely believe our product and service holds the distinction of excellence.

Why do you enjoy your job?

I enjoy working with a great team at Cedar Knoll Builders to help customers' dreams become reality and see their joy when they move into their new home.

Why are you a member of the BIA?

The BIA of Lancaster County is a great organization that provides resources and training for members of the Building Industry and provides opportunities like The Parade of Homes to promote our company. The BIA staff has always been very helpful to assist us when issues arise in the building industry.

Tell us about yourself and your family.

I am married to my lovely wife Crystal and we have three children who are all now grown and finished with school. We've been blessed with two grandchildren in the past three years which bring us much joy. We currently live in Oxford, PA. We have one black Labrador retriever and two house cats.

What are your hobbies?

Having grown up on a farm and still living on a small farm, I still enjoy being outdoors and helping my brother on the farm when time allows. We have a small herd of Angus cows that have calves each year that I enjoy taking care of...I also am a sports fan and enjoy watching football and hockey the most.

What other organizations are you a part of, if any?

I am a member of Waterway Church. Cedar Knoll Builders supports many local ministries and community organizations. One ministry that we work with closely is the Lighthouse Youth Center which provides an activity center and programs for Oxford area youth. We feel it is very important to be involved and volunteer with local community organizations.

Associate Spotlight: Chad E. Neiss, Chief Strategy Officer Ephrata National Bank

When was your company started?

Ephrata National Bank was founded in 1881 and is the only independent community bank headquartered in Lancaster County.

What does your company do?

ENB is a full-service financial institution whose mission is to help our customers achieve financial health and wellbeing, as defined by them throughout their lifetime by providing traditional banking solutions as well as money management, mortgage, ag banking and SBA programs.

We help our customers manage their money, grow their savings, buy and improve their homes and plan for life events such as college and retirement. We help businesses and farms improve profitability by managing cash flow effectively, financing growth smartly, reducing banking costs and improving banking efficiency.

What makes your company special?

We make banking simple by providing easy to understand products and services. Our culture puts the customer at the center of everything we do and our low turnover helps our teammates establish long-time, personal relationships with our customers. We're safe, reliable, stable and responsive. All of this helps our customers "feel the difference" as we indicate in our tagline. Lastly, we give back to our local community in a way that is unique from any other financial institution in central Pennsylvania. Over 30% of our stock shares are held by the Hibshman Trust, established by former bank president J. Harry Hibshman. It pays out 100% of its annual dividends in higher education scholarships to seniors graduating from Ephrata High School. For every dollar we earn, 14 cents goes right back into the communities we serve.

Why do you enjoy your job?

No two days are alike and it seems like just when you've "seen it all" a new challenge or opportunity presents itself. Banking and financial services in general have undergone great change over the past decade. Technology changes have accelerated over the past 18 months as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic, and customers who traditionally preferred face-to-face interactions have rapidly adopted digital delivery channels.

Why are you a member of the BIA?

The BIA not only serves as a great networking resource to talk to like-minded businesses, it is truly the voice of the construction industry for Lancaster County. The BIA also provides valuable education opportunities and proactively advocates for industry related issues at the local, state and national level.

Tell us about yourself and your family.

I live in Manheim Township with my wife, Dana, and my son, Hunter, who is currently a junior at West Chester University where he is studying finance and business. My older son, Chad Neiss II, passed away in October 2020, and we started an ice hockey scholarship fund in his memory in conjunction with the Lancaster Ice Rink. Information on the fund can be found at Chad Neiss II Memorial Scholarship Fund (lancastericerink.org)

What are your hobbies?

I am a USA Hockey Level IV coach and have been coaching various teams for over 25 years. I am currently in "retirement" since Hunter headed to college, but I'm sure I'll be back behind the bench soon. In addition, I am an avid music enthusiast and love playing the guitar and writing songs.

What other organizations are you a part of, if any?

I serve on the Board of Directors of Banker's Settlement Services, Capital Region. I am also a member of the American Bankers Association and the Lancaster County Association of Realtors.

Remodelers Council Wraps Up 2021

Remodelers Council Education Mingle

BIA members and Remodelers Council members gathered on October 12th to attend the evening mingle at Jemson Cabinetry. Attendees toured Jemson's new showroom while enjoying drinks, an assortment of food, and a presentation from Schluter Systems.

Chris Hosler, Territory Manager, Northern Mid-Atlantic, discussed how Schluter's products make curbless showers easy and waterproof!

Thanks to our host and sponsor:

Remodelers Council Members, please join us for lunch at the BIA office to

AND...The new BIA Website is Launched!

Now Live!

Thank you, ydop!

The collaboration with BIA member YDOP on the redesign of our current website has reached that exciting launch stage! Our goal with the website re-design, gifted to us by YDOP, is to provide a user-friendly website experience that:

- our BIA members can easily navigate
- our potential members can explore
- our homeowners and community can use as a resource for all their construction-related needs!

After mapping our current content—and we have a lot—YDOP consulted with us to meticulously consider how to structure the tabs and pages so that all users could easily locate what they were looking for (no buried pages taking 12 "clicks" to get to!).

While we knew the new site would focus on the services, benefits and information that our users find most valuable, what really had us excited were the potential design elements and HOW the website would actually look. What a great surprise we received!

The YDOP team waded through our commentary ("I don't like pastels; we want the pages more branded; I really want a cleaner look; how can we make it look better on a cell phone; we need the directory here; please remove the extra photos") and synthesized our wish list in a way that provided everything we need with room to grow.

That growth has been significant, because YDOP also trained your BIA staff to operate in WordPress system software! We now have total control over our site and are able to make changes and updates to content at any time. We are thrilled with the look and the functionality of the new site, and we are excited for the marketing opportunities that member companies will be able to utilize.

YDOP's generosity in gifting us such a valuable tool for our BIA members is greatly appreciated and we offer our sincere thanks for making the BIA look so good! Check us out at www.lancasterbuilders.org!

BIA Members Attend Code Training Seminar

PA UCC Residential Code Update Training

On October 26th the Association held a luncheon seminar sponsored by James Hardie Building Products to advise builders of the PA UCC Residential Code Updates. In accordance with the requirements of Act 45 of 1999, as amended, the PA Uniform Construction Code (UCC) Review and Advisory Council (RAC) completed the review of the 2018 I-Codes, and the code provisions that were adopted during this process will be made effective on 2/14/2022.

Attendees met at Shady Maple Smorgasbord where Brian Wolfgang of PHRC presented the two-part program. Part One focused on the details of 3 major change categories:

- Stucco and stone wall assemblies
- Insulation and fenestration requirements
- Blower door testing target

Part Two provided an overview of other specific building changes, how these updates are presented, and what changes are most substantial for residential construction. Brian also provided commentary on the draft PA Alternative Residential Energy Provisions.

We will continue to keep our builders informed of these updates. Brian Wolfgang and the PHRC team are available for any questions you may have; you may contact Brian at bmw5014@psu.edu

Many thanks to our sponsor:  JamesHardie™

MY BENEFIT ADVISOR

SUPPORTING WORKPLACE MENTAL HEALTH

Focusing on employee wellness not only benefits your employees but can boost your company's bottom line as well. Estimates that one in five Americans experience some form of mental illness, most without getting treatment, means that many will continue to struggle with their issues, impacting both family life and work life, if employed. And although mental health struggles have long pre-dated COVID-19, the pandemic only served to exacerbate the health challenges for many individuals.

For the employer, the benefits of supporting employee mental health can be substantial. By showing an interest in the health and well-being of their staff they can help employees navigate through issues like anxiety, depression, burnout and traumas. In addition to showing they truly care about their employees, providing mental health support can also increase productivity and improve the overall morale of the office.

The first step concerned employers can take is to look critically at their benefit portfolio to assure that the resources they are providing adequately meets the needs of their working populace. Start by reviewing the mental health benefits provided by any base health insurance benefits, Employee assistance programs (EAPs) and Telehealth services, then make sure all these programs are being effectively communicated to employees so they will be able to take advantage of the resources being provided to them.

Finally, employers can create opportunities for management and human resource personnel to open up supportive conversations with employees regarding mental health issues, helping to reduce the stigma wherever possible by sharing any of their own personal experiences and challenges.

Your BIA is fighting Municipal Abuse!

PA Senate Bill 208: Clarifying Municipal Bonding Requirements for Property Improvements.

SB 208 amends the Municipalities Planning Code to clarify Section 509 regarding final plat approval and the retention of posted financial security for improvements. While the law's intent is to ensure developers have sufficient funds to complete all required property improvements, the current language can be misinterpreted to withhold excess funds that greatly restrict a builder's ability to get bonded for other on-going projects. Instead of only retaining a bond of 110% of the value of remaining improvements, some municipalities have interpreted the law to retain 10% of the entire original project amount IN ADDITION to the cost of remaining improvements.

SB 208 passed the Senate 50-0 on June 22. It has passed 2nd Consideration on November 18th, and third Consideration on December 13th. It is now on its way to the Governor's Office!!!

BIA Members Have a Voice. So, Let's Use It! We Need to Hear From YOU.

Members of the BIA have joined GA Committee leaders to meet with local legislators. We are active in our efforts to both further legislation that benefits our builders, and to oppose legislation that will negatively impact our members' ability to do business. Simple to understand, but complex at local, state and national levels.

Most recently, we've engaged our members in luncheons with Representatives Steve Mentzer and Keith Greiner, and, most recently, an evening event at Rock Lititz with PA Senator Ryan Aument, House Speaker Bryan Cutler, Senate Majority Leader, Kim Ward and Senator Scott Martin.

The lines of communication are open and the relationships are solid; we must continually hear from YOU, our members, as to the industry issues that most affect your businesses.
