PRESIDENT'S LETTER

BIA's Focus This Year Is NETWORKING

by Kevin Kozo, Turnberry Construction Group

NETWORKING. We have all joined this association for different reasons but at the end of the day we want

1)To meet other like-minded people and increase our own bottom line and

2) To support our industry – the industry that provides food on our tables and roofs over our heads. Whether we are supplying it, installing it, or fixing it – Construction is simply what we do. I'm eager to foster more engagement within the association and more outreach beyond!

That reach includes our workforce development initiatives, happy hours to engage both members and soon-to-be members, arranged business introductions, and new council and fundraising opportunities. There is strength in numbers, and an expanded and engaged association has the numbers needed to fight the excessive regulation that directly attributes to increased costs of our developments, homes and apartments.

These efforts will not only expand our scope but keep us true to the BIA mission to promote our member companies while advocating for the advancement of the residential construction industry.

Some of you know that I was a past Home Builders Association president in Berks County, where I currently live. Why did I join the BIA of Lancaster? I saw an opportunity to expand my company to a growing and vibrant area; I also quickly learned that Lancaster county has SMART people! Not that other counties don't, but I have found value in getting out of my area, listening to others around here and beyond. I have enjoyed meeting all sorts of people in the business and LEARNING about how they do what they do.

I am fortunate to follow in the footsteps of predecessors who committed whole-heartedly to the BIA, advocating for our industry position, working on initiatives that reduced expenses, increasing non-dues revenue and community awareness, streamlining systems within the association to maximize efficiency and expanding our committees for maximum involvement.

Building on these initiatives, my mission and focus this year for the BIA is

LEZZER LUMBER'S PRO SHOW CONTINUES TO HELP ADVANCE THE BUILDING INDUSTRY IN LANCASTER COUNTY

Lezzer Lumber's Pro Show which was held on February 15th at The Spooky Nook in Manheim once again proved to be a resounding success this year. attracting over 900 industry professionals from around the area. The event, renowned for its growing popularity, showcased the latest innovations and products from 47 vendors, including household names like Andersen Windows, Wellborn Cabinet, Marvin Windows + Doors, and Reeb Millwork.

For attendees, the show offered more than just a chance to peruse new products; it provided a unique opportunity to engage directly with representatives from top manufacturers. John Lowe, Reeb Millwork's vendor representative, emphasized the importance of such events for vendors. noting that they allow for invaluable face-to-face interactions with both current and potential customers. "These shows are a great opportunity for us to get to talk firsthand with current and prospective customers," Lowe explained. "We're able to get our products in front of building professionals, which in turn delivers innovation and helps them keep up with emerging trends around the industry."

The sentiment was echoed by industry professionals like Bill Lastinger, of Benchmark Construction, who praised the convenience of having multiple vendor representatives gathered in one location. "It gets tough with our busy schedule to be able to keep up with everything that's new and changing," Lastinger remarked. "The shows have given us a great opportunity to get in touch with our vendor reps all in one spot and discuss our needs and challenges firsthand."

Indeed, the Lezzer Lumber Pro Show serves as a hub for networking, education, and collaboration within the Lancaster County building industry. Beyond the impressive array of products on display, attendees also enjoyed a catered buffet, cocktails, and desserts, enhancing the overall experience of the event.

From builders and contractors to architects and designers, the show caters to a diverse range of professionals, fostering an environment conducive to learning and growth. By facilitating direct communication between vendors and customers, the event encourages the exchange of ideas and insights, ultimately driving innovation and progress within the local building community.

The show's continued growth in attendance reflects the industry's enthusiasm for such gatherings. As the demand for high-quality building materials and innovative solutions continues to rise, events like the Lezzer Lumber Pro Show play an increasingly vital role in connecting industry stakeholders and driving forward momentum.

"We're honored to bring everyone together for a night like this," Mike Viozzi Lezzer Lumber Lancaster manager said. "As Lancaster County continues to grow, we believe it's critically important to host this event every year."

Looking ahead, organizers are already gearing up for next year's show, with plans to expand upon its success and further solidify its status as a cornerstone event for the Lancaster County building industry. The Pro Show continues to prove its value, not only as a showcase of products but as a catalyst for collaboration, knowledge-sharing, and collective advancement within the vibrant and dynamic world of construction and design.

Solid Economic Data Indicate A Promising Outlook for Housing

Robert Dietz NAHB Chief Economist

The economy continues to post solid gains.

The economy continues to post solid gains, leading the bond market to reverse earlier bets that the Federal Reserve would begin cutting the benchmark federal funds interest rate as early as March. Better-than-expected economic performance will reduce the rate of improvement for inflation data, meaning the Fed will need to maintain its long-stated monetary policy of higher rates for longer. In January, the Consumer Price Index increased by 3.1%, following a 3.4% increase in December.

Improved expectations for macroeconomic conditions led the 10-year Treasury to test a 4.3% rate this week, after starting the year just below 3.8%. This has led the 30-year fixed-rate mortgage to rise, albeit by a smaller amount, from 6.6% to approximately 6.8% over the same period. Nonetheless, the NAHB forecast continues to call for mortgage rates to move moderately lower over the course of 2024 and 2025 before settling in the high-5% range.

Ongoing elevated interest rates left the NAHB/Wells Fargo Housing Opportunity Index (HOI) at a 37.7 reading, meaning only 37.7% of new and existing home sales during the fourth quarter of 2023 were affordable for a median-income household. (This was the final edition of the HOI, which will be replaced in May by a new affordability index: the Cost of Housing Index.) The final read of the HOI was near a multidecade low for housing affordability because of both high interest rates and limited housing inventory.

Despite the recent uptick for interest rates, a combination of several key factors — including expectations that mortgage rates will continue to moderate in the coming months, the prospect of future rate cuts by the Federal Reserve later this year, and a protracted lack of existing inventory — provided a boost to builder sentiment for the third straight month. Builder confidence in the market for newly built single-family homes climbed four points to 48 in February, according to the NAHB/Wells Fargo Housing Market Index. This is the highest level since August 2023, and it suggests gains for single-family starts ahead.

January construction data suggest competing directions for multifamily and single-family construction volume in 2024. For the first month of the year, single-family construction starts decreased 4.7% to an annual rate of 1 million. However, single-family starts are up 22% compared to a year ago, and single-family permits have increased 1.6% to an annual rate of 1.02 million — the highest since May 2022. Meanwhile, multifamily construction starts decreased 35.6% to an annualized 327,000 pace in January, and multifamily permits decreased 7.9% to an annualized 455,000 pace — their lowest since April 2020.

Residential building material costs may heat up in 2024 as single-family construction volume increases. The latest Producer Price Index indicated that prices of residential building materials increased 1.28% between December 2023 and January 2024. This was the largest monthly change for the index since March 2022.

Finally, new data indicate that the long-run demand for home construction may be larger than many analysts expect. The Congressional Budget Office released new 30-year population growth projections that include substantial upward revisions. The latest estimates include an additional 8.9 million people in 2053, a 2.4% increase from its previous forecast. A faster growing population will undoubtedly increase demand for housing (including both for-sale and for-rent multifamily and single-family), creating added pressure on the persistently underbuilt housing market.

Be a part of the biggest, most anticipated home event of the year!

Who's in the News: Promotions & Accomplishment

PROMOTIONS

RKL LLP Welcomes Four New Members to Firm Partnership as of January 1, 2024.

Walter Goodfield, joining RKL in 2014, serves as Chief Business Officer for RKL eSolutions. He is responsible for driving customer success and revenue growth through new customer acquisition while managing strategic partner alliances.

For nearly thirty years, Goodfield has helped business leaders solve challenges through automation and optimization. Before RKL, he managed sales and delivery teams at three of the world's largest mid-market software publishers. Goodfield holds a B.S. in Business Administration from Cleveland State University and resides in northeast Ohio with his wife, family and pets.

Cliff Horst is the Sage
X3 Practice
Director with RKL eSolutions and oversees X3 consulting support activities,

implementations, and customizations. He also holds expertise in various platforms, including SQL Server, Crystal Reports, Sage 500, Salesforce and Slack.

With over 25 years of IT consulting experience, Horst is dedicated to building relationships with clients and finding better ways to achieve their organizational goals. He attended Messiah University with a B.S. in Business Information Systems. Horst resides in Lancaster with his wife and three children.

As a partner in the Tax Services Group, Thomas Kaizar, CPA, MST has developed a skillset in tax planning and compliance services that lends itself well to working with clients across various industries. He has recently specialized in working with health care industry clients to refine financial and operational processes.

Joining RKL as an associate in 2015, Kaizar also works with companies in the real estate and manufacturing and distribution industries. He holds a B.S. in Accounting from York College of Pennsylvania and a M.S. in Taxation from Villanova University. Kaizar lives in Lancaster with his wife and son.

Stephane Smith, SPHR, SHRM-SCP, as Vice President of Workforce Strategies for RKL Virtual Management Solutions, directs the firm's comprehensive suite of outsourced HR, payroll and compensation analysis services. She leads a team of HR advisors who fill key roles for employers, including payroll processing, compensation analysis, performance management, compliance, recruitment and complete outsourcing of the HR function.

For over two decades, Smith has helped employers effectively manage their workforce, drive growth and achieve organizational goals. She graduated from Millersville University with a B.A. in Psychology. Smith lives in Lancaster with her husband, two children and her dog.

Barley Snyder has announced changes to its management committee as of January 1, 2024.

The firm's management committee, which is responsible for the leadership of the firm and the achievement of its long-range goals, is led by Jennifer Craighead Carey who has been a member of the committee since January 2021 and became the firm's managing partner effective January 1. Partners and incumbent management committee members Kimberly J. Decker and Trov B. Rider will serve alongside Craighead Carey and newly elected management committee members John T. Reed and Jeremy D. Frey. Partner Paul W. Minnich cycled off the committee on December 31 after four years of service.

"As managing partner, I look forward to working alongside these dedicated and talented professionals in leading our exceptional firm," said Craighead Carey. "It is an exciting time, and I have full confidence that we will continue the firm's success into the coming years."

Jeff Lobach, who was the firm's managing partner through the end of 2023, added "I am grateful for the invaluable contributions of our management committee and for the support of our entire team during my ten years as managing partner. I have no doubt that Barley Snyder will continue to grow and thrive under our capable and energetic new leadership."

ACCOMPLISHMENT

Barley Snyder is proud to share that the firm has been ranked as one of the largest law firms in Pennsylvania by The Legal Intelligencer.

PaLaw, a recent supplement published by the daily law journal, reported that Barley Snyder ranks 17th out of 100 law firms in its Annual Report on the Legal Profession based on the number of full-time attorneys. In 2022, the firm previously ranked as the 23rd largest firm in the Commonwealth. The firm's net gain of 16 additional attorneys in 2023 placed Barley Snyder as the 9th fastest-growing firm in the state based on its increase in the number of attorneys.

"Beyond the numbers, this annual ranking underscores our firm's commitment to strategic evolution and selecting dedicated colleagues who share our ethos of hard work," said managing partner Jennifer Craighead Carey. "Our success is driven by the exceptional individuals who form our team. Looking ahead, we're excited to extend our services to new horizons, broadening our impact across diverse clients and regions."

In 2023, the firm experienced significant growth. In April, the firm expanded its services through its affiliation with the Lebanon-based law practice Reilly Wolfson. With the transaction, eight attorneys, three paralegals and 15 staff members joined Barley Snyder. During the fall, the firm completed renovations to its Gettysburg, Malvern and Reading offices. The renovations resulted in expanded space for internal and external visitors from across the firm's footprint. Overall, the firm experienced a 15.5% increase in growth based on the number of new hires in 2023 compared to the previous year.

Weaver Superior Walls and Northeast Superior Walls Announce Transition to Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP)

Weaver Superior Walls and Northeast Superior Walls announced a significant milestone in their corporate organization, as they transition to a 100% Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP), providing all current and future employees full ownership.

The transition to an ESOP marks a strategic decision by the companies' previous ownership group, Trendline Capital, to empower its workforce and align their interests with the long-term success of the business. The move reflects the firms' commitment to fostering a culture of shared ownership and empowerment among all employees. President & CEO Douglas Pfautz expressed his enthusiasm about the transition stating: "We believe that transitioning to an ESOP is a positive step for both our employees and the companies as awhole. It aligns everyone's interests and fosters a collaborative and ownership-driven culture that will propel us into a successful future." Pfautz provides ongoing leadership and strategic direction for both the Weaver Superior Walls and the Northeast Superior Walls division.

Weaver Superior Walls and Northeast Superior Walls sell and install precast concretefoundationsystems manufactured in their Ephrata, PA production facilities. Custom foundations are constructed and installed for homes and commercial applications in southeastern Pennsylvania, along with parts of Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Northern Virginia. In 2012, Weaver expanded into parts of New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, and Maine through an acquisition.

"We're proud that Weaver/Northeast Superior Walls is the first Licensee to transition into employeeownership.

This strategic move confirms their beliefs about putting their employees first," says Andrew Zimmerman, Superior Walls of America CEO. "Weaver Superior Walls and Northeast Superior Walls have a long history of excellence in the manufacture and installation of our patented foundation systems. We look forward to the continued growth and success of both firms."

Weaver Precast was Founded in 1985.

7 Popular Door Style Trends of 2024

Contributed by Zephyr Thomas Home Improvement Co.

Whether you need to replace your door for structural reasons or are looking to upgrade it and increase your home value, there are a lot of options and styles to choose from. If you need to replace your door, here are some popular door style trends of 2024 to inspire you:

1. Unique Design Details

Unique design details can elevate your entry door and continue to be a popular door style trend of 2024. Built-in details, like inlaid panels, unique glass panels, geometrics structures, and more, are popular as well as bright colors to help a door stand out. Going bright if you want to experiment or opting for a subtler color to better match your home exterior are some tips for choosing the best front door color.

2. Dutch Doors

Another option is going for a unique door structure. Dutch doors that open at the top and bottom separately are one of the types of doors that are becoming more popular. Although an older door design, Dutch doors are making a comeback thanks to the ability to open the top of the door while the bottom stays in place to keep children, dogs, and other pets inside. They can also be useful for letting in some air on a nice day and creating some airflow inside your home.

3. More Glass For More Light

Allowing more natural light into your home can help make it feel brighter and more open, which is why more glass is showing up in door style trends to provide more light. This trend is showing up in more window options for entry doors like glass panels, transom windows, sidelights, and more to allow more light in without exposing a full view of the inside of the home.

For patio doors or doors where the interior of the home would not be on full display, full glass doors are a popular choice. The view, natural light, and more are some of the benefits of installing sliding glass patio doors.

Transom windows and side lites are popular types of custom windows for doors.

4. Good Use of Moulding

Another one of the popular door style trends that continues to be popular in 2024 is making good use of moulding to add an interesting aesthetic to your new front door. Bold or unique moulding is consistently one of the interior design trends and it's one you can apply to your home exterior too.

In addition to inlaid panels and glass panels, you can also add muntins or moulding to the glass panels in and around your door for an interesting look. Decorative muntins and grid work are some of the window style trends you can apply to the glass panels of your door. Outside of the door itself, you can also get creative with moulding in the door frame to complement your door and enhance the look of your exterior entryway.

5. More Door Options to Make Your Entryway Stand Out

Another one of the popular door style trends of 2024 is to make your entryway stand out and make the front door a focal point for your home. You can do this with design details and entryway decor trends, but this style trend borders more on going all out with maximalism.

This door style trend is showing up in complete entryway overhauls that feature unique doors that stand out in addition to a lot of details and also construction. This could also be upgrading your door and entry to feature bigger, taller, or wider doors than what is the standard.

For some homes, this could mean upgrading and widening the entryways to make space for a bigger door and bigger impact. These are some exterior home remodeling ideas that could extend a little to the interior and make a big difference in overall curb appeal and home value.

6. Double Doors

When it comes to bigger entryways that make a statement, it's hard to ignore double doors. Instead of sticking with a single entry door, a door style trend gaining in popularity is to go with larger, oversized doors or double doors for the entryway.

Stylishness and ease of access are some benefits of French doors that can make them a good choice for a double door installation where you want a lot of natural light. Take a look at this French door installation for double doors that let in a lot of light!

7. Mixed Textures

In addition to making a statement and adding unique design details, another one of the popular door style trends is to continue to mix and match textures and materials. This is one of the curb appeal trends that pops up in doors, siding, and a variety of other places.

Adding glass panels is one of the most popular ways to add another material and texture to doors, and with moulding and other options, you have a lot of flexibility when it comes to getting creative and creating the look you want.

Get a New Door That Suits Your Home

There are many reasons to replace your doors and these are just a few popular door style trends of 2024 to inspire you and help you get started with options for your new door.

BIA Installation Reception

2024 BIA Leadership: Officers, Advisors & Directors

The Building Industry Association of Lancaster County officially installed its 2024 Board of Directors at the Annual Installation Reception on January 11, hosted at the Inn at Leola Village. Local builders, contractors, government officials, and other BIA guests were in attendance.

BIA's Executive Officer, Karen Watkins, performed the installation duties for the BIA Officers, Directors, and Presidential Advisors. Incoming President Kevin Kozo with Turnberry Construction Group was installed by Frank J. Vargish, III, Blakinger Thomas (retired).

Newly installed BIA President Kevin Kozo commented, "Building on my predecessors' initiatives, my mission and focus this year for the BIA is NETWORKING. We have all joined this association for different reasons, but at the end of the day, we want to meet other industry professionals, increase our own bottom line, and support our industry – the industry that provides food on our tables and roofs over our heads. Whether we are supplying it, installing it, or fixing it – Construction is simply what we do". (See more from Keven Kozo on page 3).

ID THEFT AND MITIGATION OF RISK

With the widespread acceptance of the remote work environment, identity theft has become a greater concern than perhaps ever before. In spite of heightened levels of awareness and implementation of improved technologies aimed at prevention and protection, identity theft continues to increase at an alarming rate, putting both employees and employers at significant risk.

The issue has become serious enough that many employers are including an identity theft protection program in their employee benefit package. A quality ID protection program will include credit monitoring and credit change notifications, unauthorized account access alerts, compromised password warnings and communication regarding address changes, fund transfers, public record alerts and more.

The following represent some of the more commonly utilized methods whereby criminals seek to gain access to an individual's personal information and what someone can do to mitigate the risk:

- Lost Wallet or Purse: Logins, passwords, Social Security cards and excess credit cards should not be kept in a wallet or purse. Copies of the front and back of all credit cards should be made and card issuers should be called as soon as possible after a loss.
- Mailbox Theft: Secure mailbox, pick up mail promptly and sign up for USPS Informed Delivery which will provide an email containing images of the items that should be delivered so the recipient will know if anything is missing.
- Through Public Wi-Fi: Avoid using public Wi-Fi for anything where personal information may be used, like for shopping, banking, or other sensitive transactions. VPNs (virtual private networks) can create a secure connection.
- Database Breaches: Assume that personal data has already been accessed and take appropriate precautions. Monitor credit scores and reports routinely, watch for unexpected changes, and read financial and insurance statements carefully.
- Phishing: Don't give out personal data in response to an email or call but instead look up contact information from a trusted source, such as the institution's website to verify the legitimacy of the call or email.
  - Gas Pump Skimming: Use credit cards with chip protection or pay inside the station to decrease risk. Detect fraudulent activity early by setting email or text alerts that let you know when your credit cards are used. If a card is used without your authorization, call the issuer immediately.

- Phone Scams: Be alert for scams...don't give personal information to callers over the phone. Most legitimate institutions will not ask for personal information on the phone.
- Eying Code/Pin Entry: To avoid having someone watch you enter a password or pin, be aware of surroundings and block others from seeing sensitive data. Don't leave information where others can view or access it.
- Malware: Caution should be used when visiting websites, and before clicking on attachments or links in emails. Use of a password manager is a good idea.

A LETTER TO MUNICIPALITIES ON BUILDING PERMIT ISSUANCE:

Municipalities across the state have been refusing to approve or deny residential building permits (residential as defined in the UCC) within the regulatory timeframes ( either 5 or 15 business days) as required by law; stating that all other required permits be issued prior to the issuance of a building permit.

As a member service, a demand letter on PBA letterhead and signed by PBA's CEO is available for members to use to notify municipalities of their obligation to issue a building permit according to the law.

While this may not be a "fix' for all circumstances, this letter is now available to members to utilize the influence of the Pennsylvania Builders Association.

GOVERNMENT AFFAIRS

NAHB's Government Affairs Team Posts Key Wins for Our Members in 2023

In a year of hyper-partisan gridlock that produced less than two dozen bills enacted into law (the fewest number in decades), NAHB was able to establish a formidable presence on Capitol Hill and move the ball forward on a number of high-priority legislative objectives.

Congressional Hearings: A Quick Start Out of the Gate

In a sign of NAHB's clout, the association was front and center at two congressional hearings at the start of the new Congress. NAHB Chairman Alicia Huey on Feb. 8 testified before House lawmakers on the Biden administration's new waters of the U.S. (WOTUS) rule, calling it "fatally flawed" and urging lawmakers to direct the Environmental Protection Agency to implement a new durable and practical definition of WOTUS. Texas builder Frank Murphy testified before the House Small Business Committee against the WOTUS rule on March 8, and these efforts led to both the House and Senate using a rarely used Congressional Review Act to pass a joint resolution of disapproval calling on Biden to rescind the WOTUS rule.

On Feb. 9, Chief Economist Robert Dietz testified before the Senate Banking Committee on the barriers the industry faces to increase the production of quality, affordable housing. Dietz said that boosting housing production is the best way to ease the affordability crisis and called on Congress to pass legislation to alleviate supply-side bottlenecks, ease burdensome federal regulations and promote careers in the skilled trades.

From February through November, NAHB testified before Congress six times on a host of issues of importance to the housing industry, including the need to:

- Help builders boost the housing supply to ease growing housing affordability challenges;
- · Repeal inefficient regulatory rules; and
- Speed up permit approval times.

Legislative Conference Yields Key Wins

On June 7, more than 700 NAHB members participated in our annual Legislative Conference and went to Capitol Hill to discuss critical housing issues with their lawmakers. At the top of the agenda was the need to:

- Increase the production of distribution transformers and oppose efforts by the Department of Energy (DOE) to increase the energy conservation standards for the production of transformers because it will severely exacerbate the current supply shortage.
- Curb excessive regulations that are harming housing affordability.
- Take a stand against excessive energy codes and repeal $1 billion in grants provided to state and local governments to adopt updated energy codes that are more costly and restrictive.
- Support job training programs to help ease the construction industry's severe workforce shortage and to fully fund the Job Corps program, which is a vital source of skilled labor for our industry. It is no coincidence that one week after the Legislative Conference, the House approved the REINS Act. The legislation would restore meaningful congressional oversight to regulatory rulemaking by requiring Congress to approve all federal agency regulations that have an annual economic impact of $100 million or more.

Gas Stoves

• Again, days after the Legislative Conference, the House approved two NAHB-supported gas stove bills that would defend consumer access to gas stoves and ensure that Americans have the option of using natural gas to fuel their homes.

Transformers

- On June 15, Rep. Richard Hudson introduced the Protecting America's Distribution Transformer Supply Chain Act (H.R. 4167), which would repeal the DOE's authority to implement or enforce any energy efficiency standards for distribution transformers for the next five years. Thanks to NAHB's efforts, the House Energy and Commerce Committee passed H.R. 4167 in December.
- The Senate Appropriations Committee in July passed language that includes $1.2 billion in supplemental funding to boost the production of distribution transformers. And at NAHB's urging, 47 bipartisan senators on June 1 sent a letter to DOE Secretary Jennifer Granholm that called on the DOE not to move forward on its proposed transformer rule because it will exacerbate an already acute supply chain shortage.

Codes

- NAHB was able to get two bills passed in the House the Lower Energy Costs Act (H.R. 1) and the Limit, Save, Grow Act of 2023 (H.R. 2811) that would repeal the $1 billion energy code grant program. Companion legislation to H.R. 2811 (the Homeowner Energy Freedom Act, S. 2806) was introduced in the Senate in late summer.
- At NAHB's urging, the House on Dec. 11 passed the Promoting Resilient Buildings Act (H.R. 5473), which would allow FEMA to consider whether a jurisdiction has adopted one of the two latest editions of building codes, rather than just the single latest edition, when awarding funds from its predisaster mitigation program.
- NAHB continues to pursue legislative solutions to prevent a proposed rule that sets the 2021 IECC as the minimum energy standard for HUD-and USDA-financed new construction housing. Twenty-six senators sent a letter to HUD Sec. Marcia Fudge and USDA Sec. Tom Vilsack urging them to reconsider this proposal, and legislation to prevent implementation of this rule was narrowly defeated in the Senate.

Tax Policy

• The House and Senate on May 11 introduced the Affordable Housing Credit Improvement Act, legislation that would improve the Low-Income Housing Tax Credit and allow builders to increase production of badly needed affordable housing. This bill garnered the most bipartisan support of any tax bill in this current session of Congress.

Workforce/Labor

• The House Committee on Education and the Workforce on Dec. 12 approved NAHB supported legislation (A Stronger Workforce for America Act, H.R. 6655) that would reaffirm congressional support for Job Corps and help address the nation's skilled labor shortage. NAHB also fought for Job Corps funding through the appropriations process.

BUILD-PAC

BUILD-PAC, NAHB's political action committee, helps elect the most qualified pro-housing, pro business candidates to Congress. By supporting Democratic and Republican candidates, BUILD PAC opens doors on Capitol Hill and ensures housing remains a top priority in Washington. As we look to the pivotal 2024 November elections, BUILD-PAC at the end of 2023 was more than halfway to its goal of raising $3.25 million for pro-housing candidates in this election cycle.

2024 Annual BIA Legislative Roundtable Breakfast

The BIA held its annual Legislative Roundtable Breakfast on March 5th at the Lancaster Country Club. BIA Members met with Representatives Bryan Cutler, Mindy Fee, Keith Greiner, Tom Jones, Mike Sturla and Dave Zimmerman as well as Senator Ryan Aument and 48th Senate District Director Dan Bost.

Discussions focused on industry concerns regarding stormwater management approval processes, housing affordability through land use and local zoning reforms, and on House and Senate bills that amend the municipalities Planning Code to broaden the legalization of accessory dwelling units, cap minimum lot sizes and setbacks, reform parking mandates, increase allowable density, cap impact fees and expand manufactured housing.

We appreciate the willingness of our local delegation to hear our industry concerns!
